Adjacent Digital Politics Ltd
Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement

Date: 26.10.2026

Our Commitment

Adjacent Digital Politics Ltd is committed to preventing modern slavery, human trafficking, forced labour and exploitation within our business operations and supply chains.

As an advertising and media business employing between 10 and 49 people, we recognise the importance of ethical business practices and our responsibility to work with employees, freelancers, suppliers and business partners who share our commitment to fair and lawful working conditions.

We support the principles of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and do not tolerate modern slavery or human trafficking in our business activities.

Our Business and Supply Chain

Our business operates within the advertising and media sector. Depending on the services we provide, our supply chain may include creative professionals, freelancers, production companies, printing services, promotional merchandise suppliers, recruitment agencies and other third-party service providers.

We recognise that modern slavery risks may arise within these supply chains and are committed to taking reasonable and proportionate steps to identify and address potential concerns.

Our Approach

We aim to:

- Maintain fair and lawful employment practices.
- Work with reputable suppliers and business partners.
- Consider modern slavery risks when engaging suppliers and subcontractors.
- Raise awareness of modern slavery and encourage the reporting of concerns.
- Investigate credible allegations and take appropriate corrective action.
- Review our approach periodically to identify opportunities for improvement.

We expect our suppliers and business partners to comply with applicable laws and uphold appropriate standards of ethical conduct.

Reporting Concerns

We encourage employees, suppliers, contractors and other stakeholders to report any concerns relating to modern slavery or human trafficking.

Reports may be made to:

Contact: Stephanie Davies – General Manager
Email: sdavies@openaccessgovernment.org

All concerns will be treated seriously and assessed appropriately. We do not tolerate retaliation against individuals who raise concerns in good faith.

Legal Compliance and Review

We recognise the importance of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and the associated guidance on transparency in supply chains.

We will review this statement periodically and update it as appropriate to reflect changes in our business, supply chain risks and the measures we take to address them.

This statement is provided to communicate our commitment to preventing modern slavery and promoting responsible business practices.
